MACDONALD APPEALS FOR LIBERAL AID AT SHEFFIELD

Labor Premier Makes Sharp Attack On Conservatives

WILD RECEPTION

Thousands Unable To Gain Admission To Meeting

(Reuter's Service)

London, Oct. 22.—Not excluding the Liberals who previously regarded their own prospects soberly, all parties open the final week of the campaign very confidently.

Mr. Ramsay Macdonald's reference yesterday to the "whiff of victory" was re-echoed by Mr. Lloyd George at Rochdale yesterday night, where he said he did not doubt that the Laborites would be defeated at the polls, after which the King would summon the leader of the next largest party, which he hoped would be the Liberals.

Colonel Jackson, Chairman of the Unionist Party Organisation, who has returned from a tour of the country, expressed the opinion that the Conservative prospects were most hopeful, and declared that the Conservative policy of cementing the Empire was proving a great counterblast to Socialist internationalism, especially among women.

(Reuter's Service)

London, October 21.—An appeal for Liberal support and a vigorous attack on the Conservatives was made by Mr. Ramsay Macdonald in the course of a speech at the Hippodrome, Sheffield, where he had an enthusiastic reception from an audience of over four thousand persons. Thousands of others were unable to gain admission. Queues were formed outside the building at six o'clock in the morning.

The Premier declared that the campaign was to him like a whiff of victory, but a grim struggle was ahead next week. He said that his opponents would not leave any stone unturned to damage labor because that party had been too successful in caring for the interests of the country at home and abroad. If there was any danger of extremism in Britain, it would come when an incompetent Tory government was in office. The Premier, in appealing for Liberal support, claimed that Labor had the Liberal spirit widened, broadened and heightened.

Chihli Positions Still Threatened As Fengtien Retains Grip On Chu Men

Spy Mania Follows Discovery Of Thirty Of Chang's Soldiers Wandering In Vicinity Of Chinwangtao; Japanese Officer Is Arrested

BY LAWRENCE IMPEY
(Correspondent for THE CHINA PRESS with the Chihli forces at Shanhaikwan)

Chinwangtao, Oct. 17.—It is very difficult to obtain any accurate information as to the progress of events on the Shanhaikwan front, and in the absence of permission to move about freely one can only estimate the situation by a process of inference. For example, three or four days ago we knew that Chang Tso-lin's forces had pushed beyond the Chu Men, an important strategical point to the west of Shanhaikwan over the first range of hills, and it was apparent that a continued advance in this direction would turn the flank of the Chihli army and force them to evacuate both Shanhaikwan and Chinwangtao.

Counter-attacks had been made without much effect until the arrival of Marshal Wu Pei-fu gave added impetus to the effort, and it was only on the third day of the struggle that the Mukden troops were driven back over a distance of twenty li, as announced in the Chihli communique. Naturally enough, this was proclaimed as a victory, but in reality it is not an effective one as yet, for until Chang is forced to relinquish his grasp on the Chu Men no advance on the direct Shanhaikwan front on the part of the Chihli forces has any decisive value. It was certain that the Chu Men had not been retaken, both from the absence of any declaration to that effect, and from the repeated rumors that Marshal Wu Pei-fu had issued instructions that it was to be captured at all costs before the evening of the thirteenth instant. Then, too, there has been a fairly steady trickle of wounded coming back from that direction, while at the same time batches of reinforcements have been switching off from Chinwangtao towards the hills whence comes the sound of firing.

BOMB LOCOMOTIVE

The Generalissimo returned to headquarters for a brief time on the evening of the twelfth but was gone again early on the next morning without leaving any indication of his destination, so that one can only speculate as to whether his visit was to be to Chu Men or Shanhaikwan. Just after he had gone a bombing raid started, one getting a hit on a stray locomotive, penetrating the boiler and exploding there, while another bomb burst out in a field some hundred yards away. There was a lively scene for a couple of minutes, as one or two foreign observers and correspondents happened to be on the platform of

ADMISSION OF SYMPATHY OF JAPANESE FOR MUKDEN SEEN

Peking Comments On Fengtien Reply To Tokio

NIPPON WARNED

Government Hints At Its Views In Own Reply

(BY UNITED PRESS)

Peking, Oct. 22.—The note sent yesterday by Chang Tso-lin in reply to the Japanese memorandum relative to the protection of Japanese nationals and properties in the war area in the North is generally held here as an admission by the Fengtien leader that Japanese sympathy is on his side in the conflict with Peking.

This view was hinted at by the Central Government in its own reply to the identical note sent to Peking and Mukden.

Particular emphasis was laid by officials of the Peking Government on that portion of Marshal Chang's reply which refers to the long-standing friendship between Manchuria and Japan and which asserts that he intends to preserve this friendship so long as Japan maintains a friendly spirit and neutrality in China's internal dissensions.

ALLIES AGREE TO WITHDRAWAL OF GERMAN PLEDGES

Part Of Gradual Evacuation Proposed At London Is Carried Out

(Reuter's Service)

Berlin, Oct. 21.—Diplomatic circles in London have been informed from Coblenz that the German and Allied experts have agreed to the withdrawal of certain pledges, including the abolition of customs between occupied and unoccupied Germany, taxes on coal and coal products, and export and import taxes, and the restoration of control of State forests to Germany.

This constitutes a part of the gradual evacuation of the Ruhr promised at the London Conference.

(Reuter's Service)

Duesseldorf, Oct. 21.—The French troops evacuated Karlsruhe and Mannheim today without incident.

DAMAGE CLAIM IS DISMISSED IN U. S. COURT

Judgment Given For Defendant In Action Following Motor Mishap

Another claim for damages for personal injuries received in a collision between a motor car and a ricsha occupied the attention of Judge Milton D. Purdy in the U. S. Court for China, yesterday, when Mr. F. A. Foster sued Mr. Gardner Crane to recover Tls. 10,000 as damages.

Mr. F. J. Schuhl appeared for the plaintiff and Mr. H. R. Snyder for the defendant.

The case of the plaintiff was that on February 8 of this year while proceeding along Avenue Joffre at about 6.30 p.m. on a dark and rainy night, the plaintiff was being drawn in a private ricsha, and that when nearing the intersection with Route Pichon he was overtaken by Mr. Gardner Crane's motor car, run into and the ricsha overturned. The plaintiff alleged that he received bruises about the back and ribs and that one of his kidneys was ruptured and misplaced as a result of which he was confined to his bed for about a week and unable to attend to his business for about a month.

Plaintiff was unable to say whether the ricsha carried a lighted lamp visible from the rear, but the coolie testified that he had lighted it before starting on the journey home and that it was only extinguished by the force of the collision. A policeman on point duty testified also that he saw the red light on the ricsha 192 feet before it reached him, it being pointed out to him in cross-examination that the red light would only be visible from behind.

After evidence had been given as to plaintiff's injuries, the defendant, taking the stand, deposed that the night was very inclement, with moisture on his windshield, but not sufficient to prevent him seeing objects ahead, especially if they carried their lights. He first saw the ricsha when he was within about ten feet of it, and though he made every effort to swerve to the right he did not succeed in avoiding the collision. Witness was positive that he saw no light on the ricsha. He was travelling at the time about 10 to 12 miles per hour, and the plaintiff's ricsha was not so near to the curb as it should have been seeing that it was what was described by the regulations as a slow moving vehicle.

His Honor in giving judgment found that there was negligence on the part of the plaintiff's ricsha coolie, his Honor forming the opinion that the light on the ricsha was not visible from the rear, and, in view of that contributory negligence, judgment was given for the defendant.

SUN AGREES TO NEW 'RED' LEVY, CANTON REPORT

Captured Volunteers Said To Have Been Strangled To Death

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Canton, Oct. 19.—It is reported in Canton that Dr. Sun Yat-sen has authorised his Reds to levy a contribution of a sum equal to three months' rent upon each house not destroyed on October 15 as a war-tax for the still talked-of Northern Expedition and that he has intimated that he and his followers may again set fire to Canton owing to the possible invasion of General Chen Chiung-ming, to oppose whose troops money must be forthcoming immediately.

It is also reported that some of the captured Merchant Volunteers have been put to death by strangling and by dismembering their bodies. The families of some of these prisoners allege that the latter have been tortured and dismembered and they are said to have asked that the faces may be left unmutilated for identification purposes.

It has been generally reported in Canton that General Chen Chiung-ming's army has captured the forts at Boccas Tigris but there has been no confirmation from official sources.

Filipino Couples Claim Dance Record

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Manila, Oct. 22.—It is claimed that two couples broke the world record for marathon dancing of 76 hours and 15 minutes for couples in a contest which began at the Lerma Cabaret, in a suburb of Manila, on Saturday night.

Forty-two couples entered. The winners were Jose de la Cruz and Miss Rosa Asuncion, who danced 78 hours and 25 minutes. The second couple danced 76 hours and 37 minutes. All were Filipinos.

Cotton Trade Now Improving; Hours To Be Increased

(Reuter's Service)

Manchester, Oct. 21.—The decision of spinners of yarn from American cotton to increase the working week to 32 hours from November 3 is regarded as convincing proof that trade is improving. Manufacturers of cotton goods have complained that deliveries are delayed under existing conditions.

Fellowship Dinner Of Union Club Last Night Brilliant Social Success

A cosmopolitan gathering, colorful with the fashions of the ladies of the Occident and the Orient, attended the monthly fellowship banquet of the Union Club last night at the club's new premises. Mr. V. G. Lyman, chairman of the board of directors, presided.

After partaking of an excellent dinner, Dr. W. S. New, field director of the Chinese Red Cross, who performed excellent service during the forty-day war fought at the threshold of Shanghai, made an interesting speech, giving graphic details of the work done by his society on the field of battle.

Since its inception 20 years, Dr. New said, the Red Cross was for the first time called upon to perform a piece of service of this nature. He described extensively the work of organising the units for the various towns in the war zone and the base hospitals organised in Shanghai and elsewhere to take care of the wounded. Over 2,000 distressed soldiers were attended to, only 150-odd soldiers died of their wounds. The ten hospitals established in Shanghai were crowded to capacity one after the other and when the war was at its height, there were no available space for more. There were still 750 wounded men under his care. He trusted that 250 would be released by the end of the month, while the remainder would not be discharged before China New Year.

In accordance with the rules and regulations of the International Red Cross Convention, he was not permitted to take sides. Strict neutrality had to be observed. He was only interested in taking care of the wounded, relieve their pains and cure them. However, many of the wounded following their recovery went straight back to the battle line. About 90 percent of the cured chose to rejoin the fighting men.

No foreign doctors were sent to the front for fear of international complications. But several noted foreign surgeons and physicians helped in the operation of wounds in the local Red Cross Hospitals.

Some interesting sidelights were also given by the speaker in the course of his description of the trenches and the economy of the Red Cross in keeping expenses down. He concluded with an expression of appreciation for the British Women's Association, the American Woman's Club and other organisations for their contributions.

A juggler and ventriloquist entertained the gathering with imitations of songs of birds and cries of animals to the great amusement of the guests. After the regular program, several couples joined in playing ma-jong games. More than 50 members and their guests attended.

Chihli Claims Gains In Heavy Fighting In North

SETTLEMENT DEMOBILISES PARTIALLY; CHI NOT HERE

Situation Easier As Defunct Army Is Re-parcelled

KIANGSU LOAN

Details Of New Issue Of $5,000,000 Is Made Public

As a result of the withdrawal of the hostile forces along the boundaries of Shanghai, the foreign defence units were partially demobilised yesterday. Most of the marines from the foreign battleships were withdrawn and barb wire entanglements were removed at several points.

Although preparations are still being made for his arrival, it is likely that Marshal Chi will not come to Shanghai after all. It is explained that he has been urged to return to his Nanking headquarters in order to reparcel his army for the reinforcement of Mashal Wu Pei-fu's forces engaged in the Mukden struggle.

Reports from both Peking and Chengju, where Marshal Chi is still staying, indicate that the troops of General Chang Yung-hsiang in command of the Hupeh brigade which took possession of the Arsenal before the Fukien and Kiangsu forces entered Shanghai, will leave Shanghai for the North tomorrow to participate in the Northern warfare. The Shanghai-Nanking Railway has already been instructed to prepare four trains for the transportation of the Hupeh men.

The reorganisation of the ex-Chekiang army into Kiangsu, Chekiang and Hupeh units were almost completed yesterday. The entire fourth division were marched to Chekiang territory yesterday, garrisoning Fengking, Kashin, Kashan and other places along the railway. The Chinese Chamber of Commerce has stopped sending daily rations to the defunct army of Lu Yung-hsiang, although irregular units still received food from the chamber yesterday.

Normal schedule along the Shanghai-Hangchow Railway between here and Sungkiang was observed yesterday, but the re-opening of the Shanghai-Nanking is a matter of speculation. Until troops movements are complete, it is not likely that passenger and freight services could be resumed.

After holding many consultations with local Chambers of Commerce and the Chinese bankers on the proposal to issue a $5,000,000 Rehabilitation Loan for Kiangsu, Mr. Yen Chia-chi,

SUN YAT-SEN TO PROTEST ARREST OF "LITTLE HSU"

Gross Violation Of Neutrality By Settlement Charged By Canton Leader

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Canton, Oct. 21.—A telegram just received from Shaokuan indicates that Dr. Sun is still there.

The telegram states that "the open arrest of General Hsu Shu-tseng (Little Hsu), Commander of the Allied forces, by the Consular Body in Shanghai is considered by Dr. Sun a gross violation of neutrality and he has accordingly instructed Dr. C. C. Wu to lodge a formal protest in the strongest possible terms with the Peking Diplomatic Corps." The telegram is signed by Mr. Ma Soo.

Canton streets have resumed their normal aspect and are busy and crowded. There are not so many refugees leaving on Hongkong boats, but Honan residents are still removing their valuables.

Refugees Start Homeward Journey As Trains Leave Shanghai For Sungkiang

New Managing Director Of Shanghai-Nanking Railway Confers With Tuchun Chi With View To Restoring Rail Service To North

Chinese refugees, driven into the Foreign Settlement during the civil war of the last month, started trekking back to homes and farms yesterday.

Two train loads of men, women and children, heavily burdened down with all household goods left from the Shanghai North Station during the morning. The refugees were bound for points along the Shanghai-Hangchow line between Shanghai and Sungkiang.

No other trains got out except a special, carrying Mr. M. L. Woo, newly appointed acting managing director of the road. Mr. Woo with several officials of the line in Shanghai went to Chenju to confer with Marshal Chi Hsieh-yuan, commander of the Kiangsu forces and occupant of Shanghai with his forces.

Mr. Woo was expected back late last night. It is expected that trains will be operating over the lines within a few days. Mr. Woo was understood to be seeking permission from Chi to let trains pass Chenju, present headquarters of Marshal Chi.

Kiangsu red-armbanded troops were still in possession of the North station yesterday with guards at all entrances. The machine guns were not in evidence. Employes at the station were busy washing down the platforms, preparatory to restoration of service.

Another result of Mr. Woo's visit with Chi will probably be arrangements for transfer of troops back to their homes. Some picked troops may be sent north to the aid of General Wu Pei-fu, it was indicated at the station. As much of the rolling stock belongs to the Tientsin-Pukow road, these troops, chosen to take up arms for Wu, may be transferred in the rolling stock.

Kiangsu troops are using many sleeping cars for quarters. Many of the cars are parked along the station platform. Railroad officials yesterday started a move to have the cars moved into the yards to make way for any train movements that might take place.

CHINESE SLAIN; ROBBERS ADD TO RECENT RECORD

Attendant At Japanese Bath Brutally Murdered Near Soochow Creek

Two more armed robberies and a brutal murder were added to police crime records yesterday. In one of the armed robberies, committed in the Hongkew district by a band of four men, money, clothing and jewellery to the value of $711 was stolen. The victim of the murder was a Chinese male attendant at a Japanese bath in the Gordon Road district, whose mutilated body was discovered by Detective Inspector MacGillivray on the foreshore of Soochow creek.

The victim, Zung Ching-sung, 29, lived with a woman companion in a straw-hut off Ichang Road and worked at a Japanese bath at 17 Ichang Road. At 6 o'clock Tuesday night the man reported for work as usual, but an hour later the woman appeared and asked him to escort her home as she feared an attack by robbers en route. The man left with the woman. When he failed to return, the Japanese made inquiries at his straw-hut some hours later. They were informed by the woman that he had left shortly after bringing her home. At 5 o'clock on the following morning, the woman saw the body of the man on the foreshore of the creek, but failed to report

FENG QUITTING?

Troops Of 'Christian General' Reach Peking

(Eastern News Agency)

Peking, October 22.—With the war-situation proving unfavorable to the Chihli troops, the attitude of General Feng Yu-hsiang has changed remarkably.

Part of his troops at the front has already returned to Peking and it is reported that General Feng himself also will return to the capital in a few days in order to endeavor to maintain peace and order here.

The gravity of the situation may be testified to by the fact that General Sun Yo, Commander of the 15th Mixed Brigade and his troops, entered Peking two or three days ago and he is maintaining peace and order here.

BATTALION SURRENDERS

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Shanhaikuan, Oct. 21.—General Tien Mei-chen's brigade from Arlangmiao reached Huchiatu where he engaged a Fengtien battalion of 400 men which surrendered with three guns and six machine-guns. General Tien is now advancing in the direction of Chiumen.

The 14th, 24th and 3rd Brigades have captured Chishan which is a strong position on the way to Chiumen, the fall of which is considered imminent.

The Government forces advancing forward seized four strong hills. Realising their loss, the Fengtien troops three times attempted to regain the positions but were repulsed leaving 1000 killed and wounded on the field, finally retreating in the direction of Chiumen. It is estimated that there are 12,000 Fengtien troops in Chiumen.

PLANES HALT TROOPSHIP

(Eastern News Agency)

Tientsin, Oct. 21.—The two Chihli men-of-war and three transport-vessels laden with soldiers which left Chinwangtao on the 19th instant with the object of attacking the Fengtien forces in the rear were assaulted off Shanhaikwan by six Fengtien aeroplanes with the result that they all returned to Chinwangtao. However, they left there again last night for the same destination.

FENGTIEN HOLDS ON

(Eastern News Agency)

Tientsin, Oct. 22.—With a view to regaining the two strategical points of Chiaoshanssu and Erhlangmiao, Marshal Wu Pei-fu strengthened the force of Chihli troops there by despatching reinforcements of about one division of troops and furiously attacked the Fengtien forces, personally standing at the head of the Government troops. Nevertheless, up to yesterday morning, Marshal Wu's troops were unable to regain the strongholds in question.

Marshal Wu, in the name of President Tsao Kun, has announced to the Government troops that those troops which recapture either Chiaoshanssu or Erhshanmiao shall be awarded a prize to the amount of $100,000 and that those which are successful in regaining either Shihmensai or Shahosai the sum of $200,000.

CONSCRIPT IN HARBIN

PRESSURE OVERCOME
(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Peking, Oct. 22.—The reported retreat of the Fengtien troops in the Shanhaikuan sector seems doubtful, but the big guns have apparently been drawn back with the pressure overcome as the Chihli Headquarters of the 1st Army are returning to Shanhaikuan.

(Eastern News Agency)

Hankow, Oct. 21.—General Hsiao Yao-nan, Inspector-General of Hupeh and Hunan, is despatching to the North all the arms and ammunition that are being manufactured at the Hanyang Arsenal. It is reported that General Hsiao today remitted to Peking military funds to the extent of $200,000 which he has hitherto raised. General Lu Yung-ting of Kiangsi arrived here today by way of Changsha.

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Peking, Oct. 21.—No Chinese official reports were given out today but a foreign telegram from Chinwangtao says that the Fengtien troops have retreated thirty li to their former entrenched position, while a later message says that Marshal Wu has ordered a general advance.

High Officials Of Shipping Board Here

Few details on the consolidation of the Tampa Steamship line and the Barber line have been received in the Far East, Mr. R. C. Morton, director for the Orient of the United States Shipping Board Fleet Corporation, visiting in Shanghai this week, enroute to Manila after a tour of inspection in Japan, said last night.

It is understood the name of the combined company will be the Pioneer Steamship Company.

Mr. Morton found shipping conditions in Japan rather slow.

Captain C. S. Bookwalter, vice-president of the shipping board with headquarters in Washington, is accompanying Mr. Morton on the trip. Captain Bookwalter has been in Manila and Hongkong. He is leaving on the President Taft for the United States. Mr. Morton will return to Manila next week.

Granting Of Loan On Customs Revenue Defended By Bland

(Reuter's Service)

London, October 22.—Mr. J. O. P. Bland in a letter to The Times refutes Brigadier-General Bruce's strictures of Sir Francis Aglen for his reported consent to secure the Peking Government by the issue of Treasury notes for $4,200,000 on Customs revenue earmarked for the lapsed German Boxer indemnity.

Mr. Bland points out that Sir Francis Aglen's duty is to carry out the instructions of the Chinese Government so long as they do not conflict with his duties as custodian for foreign bondholders. He says that had Sir Francis refused to consent to the flotation of the loan he might reasonably been accused of sympathising with the rebels.

Portland Puts Through Port Development Plan At Cost Of $30,000,000

Foreign Traffic Agent, Now In Shanghai On Extended Visit, Tells Of Progress Made By Oregon City In Expanding Harbor Facilities

Municipal and state enterprise is developing a wonderful system of modern piers and docks along American coasts.

Newark, New Jersey, Los Angeles, New Orleans, Louisiana, Tacoma, Washington, Seattle, Portland, San Francisco and Vancouver in Canada are a few of the port cities with steady construction work in progress.

Mr. S. L. Wiggins, foreign traffic agent of the Port of Portland, with headquarters in Kobe, who is spending several months in Shanghai, staying at the Palace Hotel, yesterday told of the development of the Portland port.

Municipal and even state development is the only possible method by which a port may be equipped to handle all varieties of cargoes. Private enterprises build only for their business. Other firms, not as strong financially, are content to use public docks.

The Portland port development comprising four terminals, cost the state of Oregon and the city of Portland approximately $30,000,000 gold, Mr. Wiggins said. Bonds, issued to take care of construction work, are being retired as soon as they become due while additional money is being put into further construction and development.

OBTAIN STATE AND

Portland, according to Mr. Wiggins, was the first port of the United States to obtain full state aid. Other ports have been partially built on state or city money. Others have depended on private enterprise.

Development of the Portland harbor, located 100 miles up the Columbia River, was planned before the war. All construction has been since the war. And thus Portland lifted herself from a coastal port, or windjammer haven, to a sizeable world port. Where once windjammers, three, four, five, six masted vessels, took on cargoes of logs for shipment to milling centers, now large ocean-going freighters and tankers of 52 lines take on capacity loads of lumber, grain, furniture, flour, apples, other fruits, canned goods, wool, fish products, paper, hides, iron and steel, and other products and manufactured goods.

EUROPEAN TRADE

Portland is sending out products to many lands. Business to Europe is slightly ahead of business with the Far East at present, Mr. Wiggins said, but a greater development of trade with all countries and in all directions is expected within the next year.

Much of Portland's shipments is outbound while the majority of trade at San Francisco is inbound goods, figures show.

Mr. Wiggins furnished the following information on Portland:

Portland has both private and Municipal grain elevators with a total capacity of 1,650,000 bushels.

Portland is the largest grain exporting city on the Pacific Coast of the United States and the Oregon District is second among the customs districts of the United States.

Portland firms ship large quantities of flour and the Oregon District is fourth among the customs districts of the United States.

Portland is the largest lumber manufacturing city in the world and large quantities of lumber are shipped to many foreign and domestic ports.

Portland has fifty-two steamship lines giving service to the principal ports of the world.

Portland has nearly twenty-nine miles of waterfront all within the city limits.

Portland has eleven privately owned lumber docks, eleven flour and grain docks, and five general cargo docks available for sea-going vessels.

Portland has four Municipal Terminals with eight piers and four slips.

Portland has two drydocks—one of 10,000 tons and one of 15,000 tons capacity owned by the Port of Portland.

"Seattle gets credit for many ships that are bound for the Portland terminal," Mr. Wiggins said yesterday. "Of a list of 25 or more ships, carried in local papers as bound for Seattle, I find half of them are Portland-bound vessels."

The port has three foreign representatives, one, Mr. Wiggins, in the Far East, and another man in Europe. A third man was recently stationed in South America.

These foreign representatives give personal service to shippers and to merchants of the nations where they are stationed.

MacDonald Appeals For Liberal Aid

London, said that he believed that the heart of the nation was sound and true and would repudiate the mad economic philosophy derived from the hysterical writings of Karl Marx. He declared that he had found everywhere a stern determination not to permit the crime of lending money to Russia, which was the most important issue of the election.

Marquess Curzon, speaking in London, said that the Russian loan had disturbed the commercial community more than any proposal of the Labor Government, whose assumption of office was a foolish and fatuous experiment due to the stupidity of the Liberal Party. He ridiculed Mr. Macdonald's assertion that his Government in eight months had contributed more to peace than all the other parties in the last eight years. Marquess Curzon said that he himself had received a personal and private assurance from each of the Dominion Ministers that they were entirely satisfied with Britain's foreign policy in the past and desired its continuance on the same lines and in the same hands.

Marquess Curzon went on to say that Labor had no real conception of the imperial idea though they paid lip service to the Dominions. Mr. Thomas in numerous speeches had boiled over with frothy patriotism but they had pursued a policy apart from and contemptuous of the Dominions. They had dropped the resolutions of the Imperial Conference, Imperial Preference, and the Singapore scheme, which the Dominions considered vital to their security. Finally they had signed the Soviet treaty with which not a single Dominion Prime Minister had the smallest sympathy and which was the most humiliating and disgraceful act in British annals. He concluded by declaring that the Labor Party were in the hands of their gunmen, but the country would insist upon having a government that would not allow the claims of the citizens of the Empire to be bartered in return for the embraces of the Bolshevists.

her discovery to the police, who were first informed when the body was found by Inspector MacGillivray.

Near the body were a chopper and a hatchet, which were evidently the instruments of death. A pool of blood and a trail from the roadway indicated that the man had been attacked on the roadway and then dragged to the creek and thrown in. His head and hands had been hacked, there was a gash in his throat, one finger of the right hand was missing, and there were many cuts about the body. The woman is being detained by the police.

An inquest on the body was held at the Public Mortuary yesterday morning, when the young woman, Zung Yang-sz, appeared as a witness. It was found that the deceased came to his death at the hands of persons unknown. The woman is still being held, but as a witness, and she is to be released if no evidence is brought within the next ten days on which to base a charge against her.

The first of the armed robberies reported to the police occurred at a tailor shop at 241-2 N. Kiangse Road. Four men, two of whom were armed with pistols, entered the place, and after intimidating the occupants, obtained the keys to various drawers and ransacked them thoroughly. In all they obtained money, clothes and jewels worth $711 and then escaped without firing a shot.

Another armed robbery was committed at a dwelling at 751 Ferry Road at 2 o'clock yesterday morning by a gang of ten men, two of whom had pistols. The men first forced down the front gate with an axe, and then climbed to a second story veranda, from which they gained entrance to the sleeping apartments in the house. Frightening the occupants, and holding them at bay, they devoted thirty minutes to leisurely ransacking drawers and cupboards and escaped with a considerable quantity of clothing and valuables. In leaving, they fired three shots.

UNTOLD WEALTH IN MINERALS IN ARCTIC, BELIEF

Canadian Expedition Returns; Steps Taken To Open Huge Treasures

(Reuter's American Service)

Quebec, Sept. 25.—Mineral riches of such a "vast and wealthy nature as to astonish the civilised world" are possibly hidden in the northern islands in the vicinity of the Arctic Circle, it was reported by a Canadian expedition which has returned from a visit to the islands on the steamer Arctic.

The explorers said that agents of the Dominion Government will probably take steps soon to open up the huge treasures in mineral ore. Many of the islands have been claimed for Canada in recent years by Captain J. S. Bender, adventurer and Arctic explorer.

Mr. F. D. Henderson of the Northwest Territories and Yukon branch of the Dominion Department of Interior said that while it was impossible to speak with exactitude at the wealth in the ore formations, all the members of the expedition were convinced that the new fields possessed ores of great value. They were enthusiastic over the "almost limitless possibilities" of the territory.

The steamer Arctic went as far north as Kane Basin, on the northeast coast of Greenland.

Fear Hostilities On Hunan Borders

(Independent News Service)

Hankow, Oct. 17.—On account of political disturbances in Western Hunan, General Hsia Tao-yin, commander-in-chief of Hupeh troops stationed at Changsha, has sent his family back to his native place, Mayi, in Hupeh. According to Chinese reports, it is feared that hostilities may break out again in the western border of Hunan.

Council Plans To Build Double Rows Of Safety Islands

Scheme Will Be Tried Out On Thibet Rd.; Later On Ave. Edward VII

Construction of a double row of safety islands on Avenue Edward VII in place of the present single row is being considered by the Watch Committee of the Municipal Council. The plan will first be carried out in Thibet Road from Nanking Road to Pakhoi Road. If it proves successful there, the French Council will be approached with a view to instituting it on Avenue Edward VII. A feature of the plan will be that motor car traffic will thereby be confined to the center of the road, and slow-moving vehicles will use the sides of the road.

Better regulation of ricsha traffic on Bubbling Well Road in the vicinity of the Race Course was also directed by the Watch Committee.

Chekiangers At Kiangwan Still Await Settlement; Retain All Their Arms

Despite assurances that provisions have been made for the enlistment or disbandment of all of the defeated Chekiang troops, foreigners who went to Kiangwan yesterday found the 7,000 or more soldiers of the Chekiang 10th division who are now encamped there fully armed and apparently without knowledge of what is to happen to them or what they are supposed to do.

Both officers and individual soldiers professed ignorance of any settlement reached with the Kiangsu or Fukien military officials, and it is believed that further palavering regarding their ultimate disposal is still going on. One report asserts hat the men have refused to give up their arms or enlist in the armies of the victors here unless they are paid $100,000 each.

The men themselves claim that their numbers are in excess of 10,000, although foreign observers say that an estimate of between 7,000 and 8,000 would be more correct. Their equipment and munitions are apparently intact. Among the troops are a fully equipped regiment of artillery, who claim to have thirty big guns and twenty-four smaller ones. Some land mines were also seen in the vicinity of where the troops are quartered. No sentries or guards have been posted and no provisions have been made for defense in the event of an attack.

GENERALLY ORDERLY

Despite their lack of knowledge as to just what is going to happen to them, the men are preserving a remarkable degree of order although some of them are inclined to be a bit surly over the long delay in reaching a settlement. They are making themselves as comfortable as possible, sleeping on the concrete floor of the race track pavilion, which they have covered with straw, and in long strings of railroad cars which are standing near the Kiangwan station. The station platform itself is an indescribable mess of filth, food and supplies, with human forms sprawled all over and around it. For the present, food is being supplied these troops with funds furnished by the General Chamber of Commerce.

Little disposition to loot has been shown among the men. There have been a few instances of their taking blankets, bedding, and clothing to keep themselves warm in their exposed quarters, but nothing in the nature of a general disturbance. These troops are in the main those which had previously occupied the Shanghai North railway station and the railway sheds near Markham Road. When they relinquished the station a few days ago and moved to Kiangwan, it was understood that they were to be incorporated in the Kiangsu armies, but apparently final arrangements have not yet been made.

TROUBLE IN POOTUNG

Reports of disturbances due to troops on the Pootung side of the river are contained in a memorandum sent by Fu Kung-pih, of the Nanwei Magistrate's Yamen at Pootung to the Kiangsu Civil Governor. He declares that soldiers in the vicinity have been the cause of many disturbances and that they are now holding many people for ransom. He asked that the river police be instructed to send men to drive the soldiers away.

The looting of Tsingpu on October 10 is reported in the local vernacular press. Kiangsu soldiers who had entered following the withdrawal of the Chekiang forces are said to have been responsible for the looting. Fifty houses were destroyed by fires started by the looters, and one pawn shop is said to have lost $150,000. Conditions in Tsingpu are now reported as normal, with water traffic to Siccawei restored.

Demand For Bibles By Chinese Shows Constant Increase

Work of the British and Foreign Bible Society in China was explained at a meeting in the drawing room of the British consulate yesterday afternoon.

Rev. G. W. Sheppard, secretary of the society, and Dr. S. Lavington Hart were speakers. Consul J. T. Pratt presided.

Rev. Sheppard told of a month's supply of Bibles being kept on hand in Shanghai. They are sold, not given away. The cheapest Bible is sold at 50 cents. It costs 35 cents to make. The $5 Bible is the most expensive sold in China.

Dr. Hart said the demand for Bibles never stopped. An increase of 100,000 books was sold last year over the previous year's sales. Dr. Hart believes the Bible will prove one of the greatest educational forces in China, cheaper pamphlets of testaments being sold for a few coppers and going into the homes for study. He urged a simpler version, one with all one and two-syllable words, understandable by the Chinese.

Oldest University In Philippines To Teach In English

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Manila, Oct. 1.—The Santa Tomas University, the oldest university under the American flag, has decided upon the use of the English language in all classes, instead of Spanish, according to an announcement just made by Father Manuel Arellano, rector of the university. The change is to be made early in the coming year when the institution will be housed in a new building much larger than the present quarters. The college of engineering is wholly under English instruction at present and several other departments are also using English.

The university also has decided to "feminise" the institution in all departments. At the beginning of the present school year last June, the college of pharmacy was thrown open to women and the success of the departure has caused the trustees to reach the decision to admit women to all departments, including law, medicine, engineering, pharmacy, philosophy and theology, as soon as the institution has become settled in its new building.

SOVIET-NIPPON CONFERENCE IS DELAYED AGAIN

Reopening Of Discussions Is Halted Pending Word From Tokio

(Eastern News Agency)

Peking, Oct. 22.—In reply to M. Karakhan's proposal for the re-opening of the Soviet-Japanese conference, Mr. Yoshizawa, Japanese Minister, today, sent Mr. Shimada, former Japanese consul in Vladivostok, to convey his message to M. Karakhan, suggesting that the proposed re-opening be postponed for the present on the ground that the present situation, he deems, does not justify the immediate opening of the conference. This, it is understood, is due to the outcome of an interview Mr. Shimada had yesterday afternoon with M. Karakhan as well as due to non-arrival of instructions from the Tokio Government. In these circumstances, it is unlikely that the conference will be held for a day or two.

ASKS INSTRUCTIONS

(Eastern News Agency)

Peking, Oct. 21.—Interviewed today by Japanese press representatives with reference to the Soviet-Japanese conference, which is now at a standstill, Mr. Yoshizawa, Japanese Minister to Peking, said: "In case no development can be expected so far as the prospect of the conference is concerned, I should think that any further meeting of the delegates of the two countries is unnecessary as well as meaningless.

"However, as I have found that there is a possibility of making progress in the present Soviet-Japanese negotiations as a result of my latest personal conversations with M. Karakhan; I have now asked the Tokio Government for instructions as to what steps I should take for the continuance of the conference. I am, however, not in a position to say as yet exactly when the next meeting of the conference will be held."

MILK SAMPLES PASS TESTS OF HEALTH FORCES

Extortion Alleged, However, In Introduction Of Small Bottles

Of the more than 100 samples of milk examined by the food, dairies and markets division of the health department during the month of September, none was found to be adulterated, according to the monthly report published in today's issue of the Municipal Gazette.

During the month, eight prosecutions were initiated for bringing milk from unlicensed premises into the Settlement, a practice which appears to be very common. Many of the licensed dairymen, the report says, keep part of their herds in Chinese territory where there is no attempt at sanitary precautions. The milk is brought into the Settlement early in the morning and bottled in the licensed dairy. The grading system, proposed by the milk commission and adopted by the Council should prove an effective means of limiting these malpractices, however. Heavy fines have been imposed by the courts, but in some cases they have not proved enough to prevent repetition of the offense.

The Shanghai Dairymen's Association has adopted a standard milk bottle containing an American pint, which is 16 ounces (i.e., fourfifths of an English pint). They have issued a circular stating that the price will be the same as that formerly charged for a "bottle" of milk—the average content of which was about 22 ounces. The public should not submit to this wholly unjustifiable extortion. As they propose to make a change for loss or breakage of bottles, there is not the slightest reason for an increase in the price of the contents. The charge for an American pint should be about three-quarters of the former charge for a "bottle."

Enormous Coal Deposits Found In Arctic Lands By MacMillan's Party

(Reuter's American Service)

Wiscasset, Me., Sept. 22.—Enormous coal deposits were discovered in Ellesmere Land by Captain Bonard B. MacMillan, Arctic explorer, who arrived here on Saturday with his party of six after fifteen months in the Far North.

According to the explorer the Far North once had a climate differing greatly from that which it now possesses. This indicates, he said, that the angle of the world's axis may have changed in the course of centuries. He said, however, that the entire Ellesmere Land coast was sinking.

The coal was discovered during a 1,000 miles sledge trip across Davis Strait into Ellesmere Land. The deposits were found near Eureka Sound in seams at some places 25 feet in thickness. Samples of the coal, which is bituminous, were brought back for analysis.

The location of the coal deposits, however, gave little hope that they could be brought in soon to augment the world's supply, for they are only a few hundred miles from the North Pole and 800 miles beyond reach of any transportation excepting dog sledges.

Speaking of this discovery, Captain MacMillan said:

"This simply proves the scientists' claim that this land had at one time a temperate climate. The big hills were at one time, covered with vegetation and the climate was like that of Pennsylvania. Seams of coal 25 feet in thickness were found within less than nine degrees of the North Pole.

"The exact location of the deposits was 81 degrees 40 minutes north latitude, within 520 miles of the Pole.

"On the top of the hills, 1,200 feet above the sea, we found clamshells, showing that at one time the hills were beneath the sea. The land has evidently reached its greatest altitude, for there are positive signs all through the north now of a subsidence. The entire coast is sinking.

"This shows a very different inclination of the earth's axis to the orbit eons ago.

"Just where the North Pole was then it is hard to conjecture. Such information, while not of great interest to the layman, is of tremendous interest to the geologist."

Traffic Accidents Show Big Increase During September

Traffic accidents during the month of September showed an appreciable increase, both from the standpoint of numbers and of resulting fatalities, over September of 1923, according to the monthly report appearing in today's issue of the Municipal Gazette.

In September of this year, there were a total of 542 accidents reported to the police, with 217 persons injured and twelve killed, as compared with 427 accidents, 180 injured and five killed in the same month a year ago.

The greater number of the accidents, 262, were due to motor vehicles; 54 were caused by trams, and 226 by other vehicles. Of those killed, six were known to be at fault, as were 80 of the injured.

Terrible Wound from Abdomen to Hip

Our portrait is of Mrs. M. MACE, of 97, Bretfell Lane, Stourbridge, England, who writes:

"For 8 years I suffered with a terrible wound stretching from the abdomen to the right hip; during that time I tried doctors' and patent medicines innumerable, but without success. At length I was persuaded to try 'Clarke's Blood Mixture,' and after taking the first bottle began to see an improvement, which has continued, with the result that my wound is healed, and I now have no pain." In a further recent letter Mrs. Mace writes: "I am happy to say that there has been no recurrence of my complaint and consider my case a very satisfactory cure."

ZAGLUL PASHA BACK IN EGYPT; FLAYS BRITAIN

Raises Banner Of "Complete Independence For Egypt And Sudan"

(Reuter's Service)

Cairo, Oct. 21.—In a speech at Alexandria, where he was accorded an enthusiastic reception on his return from Europe, Zaglul Pasha declared that he was ready to sacrifice his life for Egypt's independence.

He pointed out that the British Foreign Office White Paper did not mention that he had asked that the position of the High Commissioner in Egypt should be analogous to that of other foreign Ministers, and declared that the Egyptians had gained by the London conversations because they had confronted the British with their rights, supported by proofs, while the British had replied with a refusal without proof or justification.

Egyptians had learned that they must count on themselves, redouble their efforts, strengthen their union, adhere firmly to their rights and not lose any opportunity of energetically claiming them. The nation must remain solidly grouped under the banner: "Complete independence of Egypt and the Sudan" (prolonged applause). The Sudan was an integral part of Egypt and Egyptians would never accept separation (vociferous cheering). They would never admit that a single foreign soldier should remain on Egyptian soil.

Honan is devoting a special tax to the support of this school and a real university is the goal for the immediate future. A quite notable competitive exhibit of all Honan schools is being held these two weeks in Kaifeng and thousands of visitors see the interesting work of the schools daily. The National Educational Convention from all the provinces of China was to meet here October 10 but only a few could reach here in time because of bad travel facilities.

Settlement Defence Partly Demobilised

Commissioner of Finance of Kiangsu, returned to Chengju yesterday. A set of regulations were made public by him, although the merchants here are reluctant in committing themselves to the issue in view of the damages they have already suffered on account of the war.

According to the regulations, the bonds are redeemable by monthly drawing from January, 1925 and the total issue will be redeemed in four years and seven months with interest at 10 percent. The joss paper tax, the import surtax and the freight surtax of Kiangsu province, amounting to about $1,200,000 a year are offered as security. The Banks of China and of Communications will be agents for the distribution, which will be made at 97 percent of the face value.

The two Japanese newspapermen who were arrested and kept in custody by the Nanking authorities during the early part of the war arrived in Shanghai yesterday, having been released on Tuesday.

The Chinese press publishes graphic reports of looting and other atrocities of war in Kiangwan, Woosung, Paoshan and other towns in the suburbs of Shanghai.

BY D. J. LEWIS

General Bei Bao-san, according to information given out at his official headquarters at Lin Yung Private School, in the native city, spent the day in Chapei personally supervising the paying off of the Chekiang soldiers in accordance with the recent agreement. General Bei's headquarters admit that troops belonging to Marshal Sun are still in the vicinity of Shanghai.

I called at Shanghai South station and was informed that two trains departed today at 8.35 a.m. and 1.33 p.m. for Sungkiang. No guard was seen at this station and very little movement of troops took place today here.

General Chang Yuen-ming's Hupeh troops are still quartered at Lunghua. A train of additional troops of the 5th Mixed Hupeh brigade was seen at Shanghai North bringing back from Fangtai Hupeh troops who are enroute to the Lunghwa Yamen.

At the Kiangnan Dock, the Fifth Regiment of the 2nd Mixed Brigade of Marshal Sun's forces together with two machine gun companies and some artillery forces are in ocmplete possession of the plant. A force made up equally of men from Marshal Sun's forces and General Chang Yuen-ming were holding possession of the Arsenal.

No train service was available to the general public in operation yesterday on the Shanghai-Nanking Line. Marshal Chi is using every effort to get his troops back to Nanking from Kanziang and Quinsan. No definite information can be secured as to when train service will be resumed. It is largely a question of moving the troops before the railway can be returned to normal peace time conditions.

In a conversation with Colonel Yen Ching-chung, in charge of the Fukien forces at the Kiangnan Dock, he stated that his final instructions from Marshal Sun was to maintain peace and order at the dock and that he would continue to do so until he received other instructions. He definitely stated that no instructions had been given him to leave Shanghai.

I paid a call at the new home of the Commissioner of Foreign Affairs and was informed that a member of Marshal Chi's staff had inspected the premises during the day and that it was decided that Marshal Chi would probably stay at the Yen Zu Yuen (garden) in the native city. Upon visiting this garden, I saw a large police guard and was informed that instructions had been given to make preparations for an extended stay by an important official.

At 10 p.m., upon calling at Shanghai North station I was unable to secure any information as to Marshal Chi's arrival in Shanghai. The latest information is that the Marshal is still at Chenju.

Missionary Tells Of Wars In China

(Reuter's American Service)

Atlantic City, Sept. 19.—China is now going through a period of civil wars and will not become united as a nation until some great leader appears, according to Mr. Christian Bunting, for 25 years a missionary in Kanchow, who spoke before the Exchange Club today. Mr. Bunting told how three generals were struggling for control of the country and said that bribing was done openly by those who aspired to public office, one of the generals having paid each senator $3,000 for his vote.

Rufe Canion Meets Matty Smith In Big 12-Round Go At Carlton Tonight

Both In Pink Of Condition; Youth And Speed vs. Experience; Matty Is Favorite In Betting

Tonight's the night! Matty Smith former holder of the lightweight title of the Allied armies and of the Australian Overseas Championship, one-time ring king for the feather-weight title and before that for the bantamweight championship of the world, is due to meet Rufe Canion, the splendid Filipino boy who has beaten or severely hurt everyone he has met in the ring here, at the Carlton this evening.

Both fighters yesterday reported splendid condition. Rufe is close to 125 pounds, while Matty is practically down to the 128 at which he has guaranteed to fight. Both of them will be at their best, and the fight promises to be one of the biggest events yet staged here. There is considerable betting on the outcome, Smith being the favorite, with plenty of backers for Canion.

To counterbalance Matty's superiority in weight Rufe has two inches in height, but no such advantage in reach, both fighters spanning 68 inches. In general the two are very evenly matched as regards physical proportions, the three or four pounds difference being in Matty's more solid development, due to his being more than ten years older than the Filipino boy. Smith is more firmly and strongly built than Canion, though this is something that measurements fail to show.

MATTY'S KAYO VICTORIES

Together with this physical toughness goes the ability to take a punch, in which connection it may be noted that in Matty Smith's 254 fights, in which he has met such men as Clew Edwards, Jimmy Hill, Benny McNeil, and other men of the highest caliber, he has been kayoed exactly five times. The first man who ever really licked Matty was Clew Edwards, featherweight champion of England at the time.

But Matty has not only a capacity for punishment, but a vicious offensive in which his trump card is a short jab, usually to the stomach. He is at his best in in-fighting, when he has kayoed men again and again with a punch traveling not more than eight inches. Out of his nearly 200 victories 74 have been via the knockout route, his latest being Billy Tingle, holder of the bantam title here, whom he dropped in about the fifth round.

Matty's third big advantage is his experience. He has been fighting ring battles for fourteen years, and knows just what he is going up against tonight. He has seen Canion fight here again and again, and is thoroughly acquainted with the boy's style of fighting. The Filipino is faster than Smith, and Matty will have to overcome this by his own ability and knowledge of the game. The many years and the many fights which give experience to the fighter also tell on his speed and staying powers, but Matty has taken care of himself and not run to seed, though probably slower than he was once upon a time, there are not many fighters of Matty's weight here who have much on him in speed even now.

CANION FASTER

Canion, however, is one boy that is faster. He has all the best qualities that go with youth, speed and endurance and confidence and ambition, plus real fighting ability. Though his record is a very creditable one, his many fights in Manila, 25 in all, were mostly with boys not very well known, and tell little of his real fighting powers, though it may be mentioned that of the seven knockouts he delivered there one was of Angel de la Cruz, whom he kayoed again last spring here.

Rufe, however, came to Shanghai just at the time when he was budding out into a high-class little fighter, and local fans have had the good fortune to be able to watch his development from month to month. In his six fights here he has lost only once, this being to Billy Tingle on points, a terrific battle in which he broke Tingle's jaw. His last fight was with Leonardo Garcia, premier featherweight here, who outweighed him by a few pounds, the two fighting a bitter twelve-round contest which was adjudged a draw, though many believed Canion entitled to the verdict. He has beaten both Keenan and de Dios, besides knocking out de la Cruz.

Rufe, whose latest picture is shown above, is not only developing as a fighter, but he is still a growing boy. He came here as a bantam, but has already outgrown this class, and is now fighting as a featherweight. He is quick and strong, with endurance and stamina which carry him through a fight with such superb energy that he appears to be stronger at the end of twelve rounds than in the first, as was shown in both the Tingle and the Garcia fights. He has a dangerous and vicious punch, as the boys whom he has met here can testify, though whether he can kayo Matty Smith is another question. Rufe has swapped punches again and again in his fights, but it will be a risky proposition, to say the least, with Matty.

Whatever may be the result of tonight's fight, Canion is a real comer. He is a splendid boy, and his picture speaks for itself. He is going up against a dangerous man, and if he can win there will be nothing too good for him.

So—On with the fight! And may the best man win!

NO FREE LIST AT CARLTON TONIGHT FOR SMITH-CANION

Garcia Challenging Winner Of Big Event; Forral Meets de Dios

The free list for the boxing matches at the Carlton is done away with tonight, when the big fight between Matty Smith and Rufe Canion will come off. Those participating in the program and entitled to tickets must apply for them at the Carlton today before 5 p.m.

* * *

Leonardo Garcia, the premier featherweight of Shanghai is challenging the winner of tonight's battle between Smith and Canion and will appear with him in the ring next Thursday here. This should give the fans reason to sit up and take notice. Shanghai is getting right on to the pugilistic map these days, and anyone interested in the "noble art" will find some of its finest examples right here.

* * *

In the special event tonight, of eight rounds, Benny Forral will meet Faustino de Dios. Under ordinary circumstances a fight like this would be considered worth while coming to see, even without the big event now booked. It was originally arranged that Syd Keenan fight de Dios, but Keenan yesterday reported a bad cold which would not permit of his appearing, so the management got hold of Benny.

* * *

Forral is a good boy, and is always in condition. He will be outweighed three pounds by de Dios, who will weigh in at about 123 to Benny's 120. Faustino is fast and clever, and may be able to take Benny's measure, though the lighter boy has quite a bit of cleverness himself, and is fully capable of watching out for himself. These two are scheduled for eight rounds.

* * *

The big event tonight will be refereed by Mr. G. R. McCoy. Messrs. H. D. Rodger and H. E. Himrod are to be judges. As time-keepers, and ten-second checkers if it comes, are Messrs. Bills, Gallop, and Holliday.

* * *

The Oriental Boxing Association is putting out a special program for tonight, as an official souvenir of one of the greatest fistic events in the history of Shanghai. This program has been excellently gotten up by Mr. McKenzie, with records of the fighters, photographs, physical comparisons, and various notes, comments, and opinions,—a souvenir which fight fans will be glad to keep.

the station, and promptly proceeded to play hide and seek round the buildings and flat cars on the off chance of another bomb having better direction. Things in general are a bit unsettled here, partly on account of the discovery last night of some thirty Fengtien soldiers and two officers wandering about in the vicinity of Chinwangtao, presumably with intent to spy out the land by mingling with the Chihli forces, and partly on account of the arrest of a Japanese officer in the prohibited zone yesterday. One would imagine that there is a bad attack of spy mania for the moment as a result of this, the sentries being unusually energetic in the pursuance of their duties.

A small field wireless was erected temporarily in the vicinity of the press car this morning, and after the air raid two little anti-aircraft guns also made their appearance, both items being of passing interest. The writer glanced at them casually, and was so amused at the artillery, which reminded him of a gun in a shop window that he keenly longed for when a boy, that he stopped to examine them more closely. The sentry evidently thought that he was an enemy spy obtaining secrets of great military value, for in spite of the fact that a headquarters pass was exhibited for his inspection he proceeded to urge the inquisitive foreigner onward with the butt of his rifle gently inserted in the small of the back.

JAPANESE EVACUATED

It is probable that sentries and stray soldiers make no differentiation between one foreign national and another, so that it is advisable to go very carefully. About mid-day a train from Shanhaikwan pased through Chinwangtao with several car loads of wounded, some Japanese civilians and some Japanese soldiers also being on board, though the latter were probably some of the garrison there who were being relieved. It may, however, be another indication that the struggle on the front line is wavering to and fro, if these nationals are being evacuated for safety.

This afternoon there were no reports from the front, so the writer strolled down to the harbor to see the Chinese warship at anchor there and to locate the British submarine that came in a few days ago. This appears to be one of the latest models, and is presumably intended to protect British nationals and property in the event of a break through at Shanhaikwan and subsequent looting in the Kailan Mining area at Chinwangtao. From the seashore one could obtain a distant view of the firing line, though nothing could be distinguished beyond a few smoke bursts that might have been shrapnel used against infantry over the crest of the low hills. From behind the mountain range in the direction of Chu-Men came the sound of a steady bombardment, the heaviest for the past three days, the writer timing a heavy gun on an average every two minutes. It seemed as if the firing came from further to the south than yesterday, and in any case it went to show that Chang Tso-lin's troops had not yet been dislodged from their positions, though it might well be a barrage preparatory to an infantry attack intended to throw them out of the passes.

If one may hazard a guess, the forces on this immediate front are so evenly balanced that the battle may be expected to sway one way and then another for the next few days, unless Marshal Wu's admittedly superior strategy brings off an unexpected coup or treachery on one side or the other overturns the balance of power.

REFUGEES RETURN WHEN SUNGKIANG NEARS NORMALCY

Railway Line Is Re-established And Mayor Appointed To Run City

(Special Correspondence)

Sungkiang, October 18.—Gradually it begins to look as if some order might come out of the chaos in which we have been living all these weeks. The people who have taken refuge with us are returning to their homes, also a number of the shops have reopened and there is some life to be seen on the streets. Things will move faster when the railway is in operation again and people can travel with more ease. They are coming back, but it is difficult now with only boat traffic.

Gen. Sun Chuan-fang has appointed a magistrate Mr. Woo Tsung-nan, who seems the right man for the place. He impresses the people here as being a man of energy and ability. He was given a hard place and he had few facilities with which to work. The men of influence, who ought to have been here to help in restoring order are still enjoying the protection of the foreign settlements in Shanghai, not having enough public spirit to sacrifice a little selfish comfort for the good of the people and country.

The country districts are still troubled with looting. This we may expect until the soldiers have been properly settled. The magistrate has full powers and is trying to assert them. A soldier was caught looting in the city yesterday and was promptly taken out to a vacant spot and shot. This afternoon a great number of old women came rushing to the mission begging for help saying that their village was being looted. We sent a messenger to notify the magistrate and I rushed on as fast as I could about two miles, but when we got to the place of course every one had gone. I saw a lot of boats about a quarter of a mile away and I was satisfied that some of the soldiers from the boats had been doing the looting. There were about fifty boats and I suppose that there must have been at least five hundred soldiers. I walked up to them and asked for the leader of the lot. I tried all of the officers from a colonel down to a corporal, but they denied that there was any officer at all, but said that all the officers had gone to Lunghua and that they all were of equal rank. Of course this was not so, but there was no chance for me to find out better. All I saw seemed to be common soldiers. I at last told them that I must have some one to be responsible for as soon as I was gone, they would go back to looting. Then one soldier consented to write his name. He was of the 2nd regiment, of the 1st division whose colonel, Col. Wang, I had met and I told him that if there came any more word of looting around there that I would report him to Col. Wang. They said that they would be leaving tomorrow. Just as we were leaving, the squad from the magistrate came up and the leader said that he would go and have some more words with the soldiers, so I hope that the poor country people will not be troubled further.

LENOX SIMPSON FILES PROTEST AGAINST CENSOR

Police Shut Down Newspaper Without Any Specific Complaint

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Peking, Oct. 18.—Mr. B. Lenox Simpson requests Reuter's Agency to state that the Far Eastern Times received a domiciliary visit from the Police Headquarters on Friday afternoon in connection with the publication of war news. Mr. Carroll Lunt, the General Manager, at the request of the Police Headquarters proceeded to the Judicial Affairs Department, and was submitted to an interrogatory. No specific article or news item was complained of but it was merely stated that the Far Eastern Times had published news which had distrubed the public peace. No other indication was given as to what the specific charge was or where peace had been disturbed—the whole matter remains a mystery.

At half past eight a police dispatch was received by the Far Eastern Times stating that the issue of the presses would be sealed.

The entire issue was duly printed and sent to the delivery rooms at 4 a.m. where the police sealed it.

Copies have been sent to all the high officers of the Government.

The following is the main article on the front page in which the management sets forth its position and argument:—

"Yesterday afternoon our newspaper offices were visited by the police and a whole series of inconveniences put on us which it is needless to mention in detail as they form part of the general official procedure in Peking. The trouble is apparently caused by the problem of what constitutes legitimate news from the point of view of the Government during this period of civil war and what, to use the phrase of the Censor's office, 'has great concern with local peace and order.'

"We said editorially as late as Thursday, October 16, that the newspapers in the capital have been left entirely in the dark as to what the Censor requires. So far as we know we have never published any information of value to the enemy and practically all the great volume of war news is taken from the agencies to which we subscribe. In the case of newspapers like the Shuntien Shih Pao and other Japanese organs very full and detailed accounts of troops movements often appear. We have ourselves cut out countless columns of interesting material because it seemed to be unfair to publish it even in English at the present crisis.

"Our Chinese section is composed almost entirely of translations from the English section coupled with news taken from the Chinese New Agencies.

"What we require is an absolute ruling if the authorities will declare that nothing can be published on the war excepting what is given out by them we will naturally abide by the decision. If again they do not care for this procedure, but would like to put a censor in our offices we can provide him with suitable accommodation and place the whole onus of publication during this war period on his shoulders.

"We would point out that the Tientsin newspapers both English and Chinese are full of astounding news today regarding what has taken place at Shanhaikuan. Those newspapers were in everybody's hands, in spite of the poor train service, by four o'clock yesterday afternoon and everybody knew what they had declared has taken place. Unless the authorities are prepared to tear open the mail bags and destroy every newspaper published outside the nine gates of the capital the news will get through somehow and they will stand convicted of gross unfairness in singling out the metropolitan press for virtual suppression when a little cooperation could smooth away all difficulties during a period of great crisis.

"We appeal personally to President Tsao Kun as Chief Executive of the nation to see that fair play is done and beg him to ask for an immediate report."

Deny Favoritism In Ricsha Allotment

Denial that the Council or Police are showing favoritism toward small ricsha firms in the allotment of licenses under the new limitation plan is voiced by the Council in correspondence appearing in today's issue of the Municipal Gazette.

The subject was broached in a letter addressed to the Council by Lowe, Bingham and Matthews on behalf of the Star Ricsha Company. In this letter it was alleged that preferential treatment was given to Chinese ricsha owners to the detriment of the Star Ricsha Company, a foreign concern. An additional allotment in respect of licenses of 1,100 new ricshas belonging to the firm on July 1, for which licenses had not then been applied was asked, but this the Council refused to grant.

Electricity Dept. Worker Electrocuted

Tsha Ah-ling, an employe of the Shanghai Municipal Electricity Department, was electrocuted while at work on the overhead wires at the corner of Yu Yuen and Edinburgh Roads. According to the report of the accident filed with the police, the man's head touched one of the low tension wires. Simultaneously, he caught at another wire with his hand. He was removed to the Chinese Red Cross Hospital, but efforts to revive him proved unavailing.

REFUGEE CAMPS SUPERVISED BY HEALTH BUREAU

Municipal Department Does Good Work In Preventing Spread Of Disease

Supervision of refugee camps and other problems due to the war engaged the attention of the Municipal Health Department during the month of September, the monthly report published in today's issue of the Municipal Gazette states.

In the Western District there were, at the end of the month, three camps harboring in all about 4,000 refugees. Two camps had their own foreign-qualified doctors, the third had no doctor. The chief danger from these camps is the possible introduction of smallpox and typhus fever. A Chinese doctor attached to the department visited each camp daily to receive reports from the camp doctors and to make a medical inspection where there is no doctor, to arrange for the removal of cases of infectious disease, to help in vaccinations, and to provide for regular disinfection and disinfestation of clothes and bedding. All the inmates of two of the camps have been vaccinated, and about 300 at the third camp.

In the Northern District here were five camps, with a total of 2,000 refugees. All of these had their own doctors; the vaccinations, etc., are performed by the inspecting staff of the department, as it has not yet been possible to secure the service of a Chinese doctor. In the Pingliang Road, Eastern District, there is one camp to accommodate in all about 20,000 refugees. This has been erected by the Council to meet emergency, and is not yet occupied. Beside these there are a number of naval detachments whose needs have been supplied.

5 Mauser Pistols And 500 Rounds Of Ammunition Found On Man

Karl Ehring, 37, a German, ship's fireman, was taken into custody at 6:30 o'clock yesterday morning by Special Police Constable 244 on Kungping Road on a charge of illegal possession of arms.

When arrested, the man had in his possession five .32 caliber automatic pistols and 500 rounds of ammunition. He is said to have told the police that he obtained the guns and ammunition from the M. S. Havelland, which is docked at the Old Ningpo Wharf.

Later in the day Ehring appeared in the Mixed Court, the charge preferred being the importation of arms and ammunition. Mr. Whitamore, British Assessor, and Magistrate Li, presiding, remanded the accused in custody for a hearing before a special assessor.

Short Story Club Program Outlined At Meeting Tuesday

Mrs. V. G. Lyman Is Elected Librarian; Committees Are Appointed

An interesting meeting of the Short Story Club was held last Tuesday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. G. A. Bena, 90 Jessfield Road. There was a large attendance of members and several invited guests, including Miss Elsie McCormack, author of "The Shanghai Baby," who has returned to Shanghai for a visit: and Mrs. Philip Sullivan, formerly Miss Bess Lipscomb who was secretary of the club last year.

Original short stories written by Mrs. Bena and Mr. Arthur de C. Sowerby, president of the China Society of Science and Arts, were read and discussed. Mrs. Bena read two stories of limited length which showed artistic handling and produced a decided unified effect. They were given as examples of a type of brief and impressionistic fiction story which is popular with American magazine editors at the present. The interest in Mr. Sowerby's story centered about a dog, the author availing himself of his knowledge of, and fondness for dogs and making expert use of his training as a naturalist.

The publication of "Short Stories Written in Shanghai" was the successful climax of the club's work for the season of 1923-24. Mr. Verne Dyson, the president, announced that the book now ranks as a "best seller" at the local book stores and that most of the first edition had been disposed of. At the meeting Tuesday evening the club's program for the coming season was outlined.

Mrs. V. G. Lyman was elected librarian. The club started a small working library last year. Mrs. Lyman has loaned the club two late books dealing with short story writing which will be used in the study course. The November meeting of the club will be held at the home of Mrs. Lyman, 186 Bubbling Well Road.

Mr. Dyson announced the appointment of the following committees for the new club year:

Executive Committee: Mrs. J. Warner Brown, chairman: Mr. Maurice E. Votaw, Mrs. J. J. Connell, Mr. George B. Leslie, Miss Martha E. Pyle and the officers of the club.

Editorial Committee: Mr. Maurice E. Votaw, chairman; Miss Ruth Benedict, Mrs. G. A. Bena and Mr. A. de C. Sowerby.

Membership Committee: Mrs. J. J. Connell, chairman, 117 Peru Robert (Tel. W. 794); Mrs. C. M. Drury and Mr. Guy C. Stockton.

The newly-appointed executive committee will hold a meeting at 5.30 o'clock next Friday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Brown, the chairman, 523 Rue Ratard. Mrs. Connell will submit the recommendations of the membership committee, and a list of proposed new members will be placed before the club at an early date. Five members failed to qualify last year and two who wrote stories have left Shanghai. The membership of the club is limited to thirty.

Some Women Love to Live
This One Lived to Love

There was a Married Man whose Wife Adored Him.

A Vamp Hurled Herself with Might and Main at the Man and enmeshed him in her Raven Hair, and Blinded Him with Her Fatal Beauty.

But the Wife put up a Game Fight for her Meal Ticket and for a time the Fight was a Draw.

Then One Day the Man went to the Vamp and said: "At Last it is all Over." My wife has Divorced Me. The Children Are so Sore at Me that they have applied to the Courts to Have their names changed.

"Come with me, my love. Now We Have But Each Other."

"So You are Free to Love Me," said [illegible] "There is no Longer Anyone to come [illegible]

"Not a Soul," said the Man. "I am Yours."

"Then Beat It," said the Vamp. "Why should I Want What Nobody Else Wants."

Moral—The Vamp takes more Pleasure in Pursuit than Possession.

The Proof—See the Vamp in "A Fool There Was" at the Isis Theatre, beginning Sunday.

REPORT DEVICE TO PUT ENTIRE ARMY TO SLEEP

American Army Officers Tell Of Progress Made With New Inventions

(Reuter's American Service)

Philadelphia, Sept. 17.—Devices by which in war enemy powers may be able "to put a whole nation to sleep for forty-eight hours by a combination of new chemical discoveries with radio-controlled maniless airplanes," were described by Major General Squier, Signal Corps expert, today before a gathering of scientists in honor of the centenary of the Franklin Institute.

General Squier said the gas would be similar to a harmless anaesthetic given to a patient during a surgical operation.

Major General Patrick, chief of the Army Air Service, who followed him, stated that the army already possessed an "automatic pilot" that flies airplanes without anyone aboard and expressed the belief that their control by radio was only a matter of brief development and that "whole flocks" of such planes controlled by a man in a distant airplane, would in future operate against hostile cities, attacking at the will of the remote pilot.

The end of transportation of great armies overseas, a new aerial camera "that nullifies camouflage" and wiping out of a battleship with a single aerial bomb were among the new weapons of war discussed.

The session was presided over by Rear Admiral W. A. Moffett, and Dr. Joseph S. Ames, of Johns Hopkins University, member of the government advisory council of aeronautics, also was a speaker.

Before another sectional meeting, held at the University of Pennsylvania, Dr. W. D. Coolidge, assistant director of the research laboratory of the General Electric Company, described a new type portable X-ray. Weighing thirty pounds, about the size of an automobile or radio storage battery, fool-proof and operating from the ordinary household lighting circuit, Dr. Coolidge said the machine promised to bring X-ray into much wider use.

It would prove useful, Dr. Coolidge said, to the builder, the plumber, the electrician, etc., since it would be just as easy to look through walls and floors as it is for the doctor to see the bones of the human body. It would also prove a great help to the customs inspector in searching for secret chambers in trunks and bags and would be useful to jewellers in examining precious stones to determine whether they were genuine, he added.

Death Claims 51 In Month Of September

Forty deaths among foreign residents of the International Settlement and eleven among non-residents occurred during the month of September, according to the monthly report of the acting commissioner of public health, which appears in today's issue of the Municipal Gazette.

One foreign and three Chinese deaths were due to influenza. Five foreign cases of typhoid fever and four of paratyphoid were reported. There were also four cases of typhoid outside the Settlement limits, one of which proved fatal.

Three deaths among foreigners were due to dysentery. One Chinese case of cholera was confirmed, the patient residing outside the Settlement. There were three deaths among foreigners due to tuberculosis.

There will be a turmoil and unrest among women beginning next Sunday. On that day the vampire will be in town. See her in "A Fool There Was" at the Isis Theatre next week.

Head Of Eastern News Agency Will Return Here Today

Mr. H. Hata, director of the Eastern News Agency and a popular figure in the local Japanese community, will return to Shanghai today aboard the s.s. Suwa Maru from Hongkong after a seven months' tour of the United States and Europe.

Mr. Hata's stay in Europe had a sorrowful termination when word reached him of the death at Tokio of his wife about two months ago. After a stay of only a day or two in Shanghai, he will go to Tokio to attend funeral services for Mrs. Hata, returning to Shanghai later.

STOMACH TROUBLES.

Their Causes and The Tonic Remedy.

Lots of people abuse their stomach. They eat too much, use indigestible food, many of them swallow quantities of alcohol thinking that this will help digestion.

Nothing could be more stupid and wrong. Alcohol does not help the stomach; on the contrary it makes digestion more difficult, a fact which is recognized now by scientists and doctors all over the world. The only right way to remedy matters is to begin to treat the stomach properly by care as to diet and and by giving it fresh strength by means of tonic treatment—the treatment which is best supplied by Dr. Williams' Pink Pills.

If you have indigestion, gas on the stomach, sour stomach, belching or heartburn, if your appetite is poor or you cannot eat substantial nourishing food without distress, just give Dr. Williams' Pink Pills a short trial and you will be surprised how quickly improvement will set in. The first thing noticeable usually is an increased desire for food—you begin to look forward with pleasure to meal times, you sleep better at night, your nerves become calmer and stronger, and a general sense of comfortable well-being takes the place of irritability and depression. By degrees as the blood stream becomes more and more enriched and strengthened by Dr. Williams' Pink Pills the whole system gains strength, lost weight is made up, you are no longer uncomfortably conscious of your stomach because a properly functioning stomach only makes itself noticeable when it is healthily hungry at the right periods for meals.

No new and untried remedy, but the world's most famous blood and nerve tonic for over five-and-thirty years, Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People are obtainable from chemists everywhere, or post free $1.50 per bottle, $8 for 6 bottles, from the Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., 60 Kiangse Road, Shanghai.

$150,000,000 Loan To France Is Now Planned

To Be Sought In America After Dawes Plan Is In Force

The Republic of France is expected to float an external loan within the next four months. It will come after the contemplated German loan and will be sold in the American market, according to a recent report in the financial district of New York. This report stated that advances already had been made by representatives of the French Government to New York bankers, but representatives of the institutions said this was an overstatement.

The "set-up" for a French loan, as seen by New York financiers, will depend first upon the establishment of the Dawes plan. Other factors will be the probable course of the franc and the plans of France for industrial expansion. That France will maintain large dollar balances in her post-war campaign for trade was taken for granted by bankers.

Rumors that French loan already was in course of negotiation were believed to have grown out of discussion in Paris of the advisability of providing dollar credits. The size of these would depend, it was explained, upon the amount of money that France would receive from Germany—the larger this amount the smaller the prospective loan, and the smaller this amount the larger the prospective loan. It also was pointed out that the $100,000,000 French loan obtained for franc stabilisation purposes has by now been fully paid off without any strain whatever upon France.

The stabilisation program proved so effective that France made rather than lost money by "squeezing the shorts." The Government, however, was reported to have discussed the advisability of continuing such a credit in more permanent form, and the prospective long-term loan, it was said, would furnish such a means.

The amount mentioned in the reports was $150,000,000, and New York bankers said that France could obtain that much money without much effort in view of the extraordinary abundance of credit now available in the United States and awaiting employment. Illustrating the abundance of money on hand, one commercial banker told of an instance in which a "small out-of-town bank" was sending funds to a large New York institution for employment. Ordinarily the out-of-town bank would send $5,550 at a time, but in August this institution increased the amount to $500,000, indicating a great increase in its idle capital. The illustration, the banker said, was typical of many instances, including even the banks of the North-west, which until recently had been "frozen."

ENGAGEMENT

The engagement is announced of Mrs. Katherine M. Stuart-Cook of Toronto to Mr. Jan Harchner of Amsterdam, Holland.

71030 O 23

Peking And The Press

THE action of the Peking authorities in bringing about the suspension of publication of the Far Eastern Times, is the subject of a lengthy statement circulated through the agency of Reuters, which appears on another page. The action appears to have been taken, not because of some specifically alleged offence, but under the general accusation that the newspaper had published news which had disturbed the public peace. If this indeed be so, the authorities seemed to act under a charge which in its vagueness only equals in iniquity the lettres de cachet which at one time in French history formed so powerful a weapon in the hands of unscrupulous officials. It is permissible to believe that during periods of stress through war the most exigeant of constitutions may be suspended. Indeed, we have seen this done in practically all the big nations of the world during the past few years, and there is little to be said against such a step when the safety of a nation may be imperilled. And if the constitutional rights of the individual may be thus temporarily impaired, there seems to be no cogent reason why organs of publicity should not have placed upon them any restriction dictated by ordinary prudence. But the case of the Far Eastern Times seems to differ considerably from that in which the press would tamely submit to interference.

In the absence of a censorship it is to be supposed that an editor is free to publish whatever news comes to him, consistent with the recognition of this duty to the public and the state. If he does not do so, it is conceivable that he may be called upon to answer for his fault before the proper tribunal, but only then upon a specific complaint setting forth in no uncertain terms the exact offence with which he is charged. That might, however, be a process largely resembling the feat of shutting the stable door after the disappearance of the horse. Nevertheless, in the absence of specific instructions as to what shall and shall not be printed, and the establishment of a censorship for the purpose of exercising that degree of supervision so necessary in times of war, we fancy the offence would have to be very grave indeed before any serious action were taken in any country which was not fully appreciative of constitutional abilities and disabilities.

Last Friday afternoon, before probably the editor himself knew much of what would appear in his paper the next day, the Chinese police made a domiciliary visit and prevailed upon the general manager of the paper to submit to an interrogation by the Judicial Affairs Department. Some time prior to 8.30 p.m. the authorities, for some reason best known to themselves, decided to seal upon the next day's issue then in course of preparation and at 4 a.m. the next day, when the printing was completed, sealed up the whole of the issue. It does not matter what was printed in that particular issue of the paper, it certainly at that time had not committed any offence with that particular issue, calculated to come within the terms of the widely drawn accusation levelled against it the previous day. If the action was based upon what had already transpired the proper course would have been to take the appropriate action on the Friday, but for some reason the authorities refrained from doing so, and eventually, by what on the face of it appears to be a wholly capricious act on the part of the authorities, serious interference is inflicted upon the processes of a highly valuable undertaking.

If it is true that much was being published in the Peking papers calculated to give aid and comfort to the enemy, the government had the remedy in their own hands. The establishment of an efficient censorship over the telegraph services, and over the newspapers themselves would have been all that was sufficient to achieve that end, and that would have been a proceeding, which, no matter how irksome it might have been to editors thus controlled, would have been perfectly proper and fully within the rights of the authorities. Again if it is true that the other papers published in and reaching Peking contain much information which ought not to be published, the authorities by their action seem to lay themselves open to a charge of partiality which does them no particular credit, Possibly we should not be far wrong if we suggested that the Far Eastern Times by its past policy has failed to show any great degree of sympathy with the party in power in Peking, and has thereby brought upon itself this trouble, we should not be far wrong, but this does not affect the general issue raised as to whether the Peking Government is not guilty of an unconstitutional and tyrranical act by taking the measures they have adopted in this instance.

Loyalty And Disloyalty In The Chinese Camps

"CHINESE soldiers are good fighters, but they never can know when their leaders are going to sell them out," is a statement frequently heard when foreigners get together to discuss the civil conflicts in China. And another statement frequently heard is that the Chinese officials and militarists can't trust each other, hence a leader is never certain whether his subordinates are going to "double cross" him and sell out to the other side.

Statements similar to the foregoing have been quite common since the beginning of the present struggle and unfortunately there has been some evidence to prove the correctness of the statements. This is usually true on the "losing" side of the contest. It is said for instance that General Lu Yung-hsiang, former tuchun of Chekiang Province, made his sudden decision to evacuate his provincial capital Hangchow when he received word that a trusted subordinate on the Fukien border had turned traitor and had joined the opposition. When General Lu reached Shanghai he found that the original report had been inaccurate regarding the particular general but that another subordinate still lower in rank had given up a strategic point and permitted the enemy to advance.

Then later on here in Shanghai General Lu again made a sudden decision to give up the fight and go to Japan, largely because he discovered while in a military conference that one or two of his subordinates had decided not to remain in the war. A few days later when the Hupeh troops got through the lines and took possession of the arsenal here, there were wild rumors one night that they had changed sides and had agreed to cast their fortunes with General Hsu Shucheng (Little Hsu) in a plan to reorganise the Chekiang offensive against Kiangsu. Whether this last report was accurate no one will ever know, for Little Hsu was arrested by the foreign municipal police, and his little scheme for causing further trouble here was frustrated. The Hupeh troops at once announced their unquestioned allegiance to Kiangsu and the next day General Chi Hsieh-yuan and General Sun Chuan-fang both sent their own troops into the area and the incident was closed.

In recent days there have been rumors magnified in the news reports of dissension between Generals Chi and Sun over the spoils of victory in this territory, but apparently the dissensions if actually present are being smoothed over for the present and both sides are open in their protestations of undying loyalty and friendship. In the North there have been persistent reports questioning the loyalty of General Feng Yu-hsiang, the Christian General, to the Chihli cause. A prominent foreigner, residing in Peking, who was in Shanghai a few days ago said that General Feng had been promised the tuchunship of Manchuria in case Chihli is successful in the present war. For this reason General Feng had been entrusted with the important service of defending the lines in the vicinity of Jehol, a key position in the defenses of the Chinese capital. General Feng had not been out of Peking a week before it began to be rumored that he was only pushing his offensive half-heartedly and that he had entered into a secret agreement with General Chang Tso-lin, the Fengtien warlord, whereby he was to supplant General Wu Pei-fu in case Chang was successful in the fight at Shanhaikwan.

Politics often makes strange bed-fellows in China as well as elewhere, but when we analyse most of the cases of disloyalty, we usually find that there is often more propaganda about disloyalty then there is actual disloyalty. Everybody likes to be on a winning side—elsewhere—as well as in China, but here in China this element seems to be more accentuated than in other countries. The Chinese seem to lack certain staying qualities when fighting a losing game. This was shown in the sudden decision of Generals Lu and Ho and their immediate associates to get out of China and to a foreign country when they realised the game was up for their side in the fighting here. There doubtless are many reasons for this in Chinese character undiscernable to the foreigner, but one imported element undoubtedly is the usually barberous manner in which the vanquished are dealt with following the close of the battle in which one side has been completely successful. This in a measure at least explains the presence of so many refugees of high rank in the foreign settlements. Chinese ordinarily very friendly and charitable and hospitable will go to unusual lengths to punish enemies. One does not need to go further than the bloody "tong" fights among the Chinese residents of American cities to realise this.

Other Views Than Ours On The War In China

THE CHINESE PROBLEM

(From The Troy, N. Y., Morning Record)

The statesman of Soviet Russia who insists that the trip of Secretary Hughes to Europe (last summer) was for the purpose of apportioning China among the powers and stripping it of its independence is a humorist of parts. If any nation in the world has stood like adamant against this very course that nation has been the United States. Nothing but the genius of John Hay prevented the division of the Dragon Empire; and Russia was one of the nations greedily awaiting the loot. The American principle from the beginning has been of sympathy for China, "hands off" in its government affairs and constant watchfulness lest the other powers break the agreement and renew their demands for spheres of influence.

But there is this much truth about the Chinese situation: Much as the United States favors the independent development of the country, it will not be in a position to insist upon self-government forever if the Chinese themselves continue to prove themselves incapable of it. It was an alien race, the Manchus, who governed China until the republic. Today the Chinese have assumed control; with a hazy influence for an indeterminate distance from the city gates of the capital. In between, the tuchuns of the various provinces hold the power and permit civil war, banditry or any other course that lines their pockets or increase their influence.

Shanghai is, in a way, a European city. It is true that but one in 50 of the inhabitants are non-Chinese; but the influence they yield is immense. They control most of the larger businesses and even have their own legislative bodies and courts. Most of the trade is in their hands; and their concessions are expensive and beautiful. But Shanghai, being between the territory admittedly controlled by two rival tuchuns, is in the throes of civil strife.

This kind of thing cannot go on forever. Nobody wants Europe to govern Asia; it should develop its own Oriental civilisation. But it must maintain sufficient order, at least, to assure safety to the nationals of other lands who are traveling or residing there. The Russian leader is ridiculous when he discusses alleged scheming to rend China apart and give the parcels to the powers. But when he talks of dissolution and of European residuary legatees, he is merely prophesying an end which cannot be avoided if China menaces the lives and the property of tens of thousnds of Americans and Europeans whenever a governor takes it into his head to spend some of his ill-gotten gains in a petty warfare to extend his sway.

BOBBIE AND HIS PA

BY WM. F. KIRK

Pa was looking at a Record Book last nite—it was the Records of grate fiters.

That is moast butiful literachur, sed Ma. If I was you I wud throw that book in the garbidge pale, sed Ma.

I jest paid one been for this book, sed Pa. Why shud I throw it away?

That is a vary foolish way to spend a dollar, sed Ma. If I spent a dollar for the Records of grate movie stars, sed Ma, you wud give me the laff.

I doant think I wud, sed Pa. I imajin the Records of sum movie stars wud be worth moar than a dollar, sed Pa. But I guess they wuddent cair to see them Records in a book, sed Pa.

Wen I grow up maybe I will be a great fiter & have my naim in a Record Book, I sed.

Parrish the thot, sed Ma. I wuddent like to have my son grow up to be a vulli-gar prize fiter, sed Ma.

Bobbie will nevver be a fiter, sed Pa. He squeels too loud wen he is gitting spanked. Wen I was a small boy, sed Pa, I nevver let a squawk out of me wen I was gitting punnished. Of course, sed Pa, I seldom had to be punnished wen I was littel, on account of my bee-ing such a good chile, sed Pa.

Of course, sed Ma. You must of been a model baby.

I was, sed Pa. Mother used to tell how I nevver cried or got into mischif or anything. I bet she wud like to have me for her littel baby aggenn. You used to call me pure baby, too, sed Pa. Them happy days is gone.

Did I ever call you my baby? sed Ma. Ma was laffing.

You sure did, sed Pa.

Maybe that was beekaus you used to be looking for a bottel, sed Ma.

Never mind about bottels, sed Pa kind of quick. I do not relish them alewshuns to bottels, sed Pa.

Well, sed Ma, I wont say any moar about bottels, but I will say, sed Ma, that you mite find sumthing finer to reed than the Records of men that maiks a living slamming other men on the noase, sed Ma. I deetest anything so vulli-gar as prize fiteing, Ma sed.

But men like those things, deer, sed Pa. I always leened a litte toward boxing in my yunger days, sed Pa, & now that I am too old & fat to fite any moar I like to kind of keep in touch with the fiters of to-day, sed Pa. All life is a battel, sed Pa. Married wimmen shud know that, sed Pa. Married men certingly know it.

Well, sed Ma, reed what you want to reed, deer. I suppoase you will always be moar or less of a ruff neck, sed Ma.

That is what us gents gits for gitting married, we pay for the hoam & he grub & a ottermobeel etc. & then the wimmen calls us ruff necks. That is the way wimmen is, thay cant help it. I guess I have rote enuff tonite, I have broak my pensil anyhow & it is riting rotten.

More Truth Than Poetry

BY S. E. KISER

How long shall Society's dearest ambition
Be thwarted by those who are poor and outside;
We are put in a horribly awkward position
For lack of the titles that still are denied.
The dear little prince had to mingle with misters
And there wasn't a duchess to give him a hand;
With titles so dear to our mothers and sisters,
Why not have an order of lords of the land?

Our stateliest ladies are shamefully treated,
The butlers address them as madams or ma'ams;
They ought to have titles by which to be greeted,
The poor ought to meet them with humble salaams.
Oh, think of the joy that would permeate girldom
If any old dad with a million or more
Could swell as a baron or purchase an earldom,
And be ready to welcome a prince at his door!

We might have a Marquis of Hicksville or Flushing,
A Viscount of Roslyn, an Earl of Great Neck;
With the Duchess of Jericho, gorgeous and gushing,
We could show some real class to the princes, by heck!
Alas, our forefathers were very shortsighted;
Their intentions were good, but their judgment was bad;
Our daughters and dowagers, woefully spited,
Are barred from the glory they ought to have had.

Let our dear Constitution be quickly amended;
Away with the folly that Jefferson preached!
Equality once may have seemed to be splendid,
But the time for a social division is reached.
Give us ladies with titles to welcome the princes
And lords to be eagerly paying the bills;
Let us cease to be known as a nation of quinces,
Let the fish have a chance to get into their gills!

The Blue Sky And The Menace Behind It

BY GARRETT P. SERVISS,

A few months ago a new theory of the cause of the blueness of the sky was set forth by a Norwegian physicist, L. Vegard. Now, the blue sky is a phenomenon so striking, so beautiful, and so puzzling when one comes to think about it, that Vegard's theory had an immediate success with the public, especially because it also purported to explain that other, no less popular, marvel of the sky, the aurora borealis.

Vegard concluded that the aurora was caused by cathode rays from the sun bombarding a vast shell composed of nitrogen dust, or crystalline particles of nitrogen, kept in suspension in the upper air by an electrostatic field. He supported this by laboratory experiments. Then he went further and affirmed that the blueness of the sky had its origin in the reflection of the blue rays of sunlight from this same layer of solid nitrogen particles.

Here he came into conflict with the long-accepted explanation of Lord Rayleigh, who ascribed the blue color of the sky to the scattering of the blue waves by the molecules of the atmosphere itself. And this theory, too, had been verified by laboratory experiments made by Tyndall as well as by Rayleigh. Vegard proposed to throw the Rayleigh theory overboard, but other physicists were not disposed to do that, and instead some of them have now come to the defense of the old explanation, while rejecting the new one.

Among these is Professor Jean Cabannes, of the Montpellier University, who points out that if the Vegard theory were correct the blue sky would be a separate dome, arching over us at a minimum of height of some forty-four miles—the lower limit of Vegard's nitrogen shell—while below that there would be no scattering of light by the pure atmosphere. But this is not in accord with the facts, and Vegard's assumption is contradicted by the observations of the transparency of the atmosphere for light waves of various lengths made at the Mount Wilson Observatory. Moreover, every high mountain climber can testify that Vegard's statement that the sky is just as blue at sea level as at the summit of lofty mountains is not correct. As seen, for instance, from the top of Mont Blanc the blue of the sky is much deeper than when seen from sea level.

This the Rayleigh theory ascribes to the effect produced by the larger particles floating in the lower levels, the particles being so large that they diffuse light of all wavelengths, i.e. of all colors, and thus dilute the blue scattered exclusively by the molecules of the upper levels.

For the Rayleigh theory rests upon the fact, experimentally demonstrated, that atmospheric particles which are small in comparison with the wave lengths of light diffuse the light more freely in proportion as the waves are shorter. The blue waves being the shortest in the sunlight are therefore abundantly scattered (and so caused to suffuse the air with their color) by the exceedingly small molecules of the pure upper atmosphere, while the longer waves are not extensively diffused until they encounter the larger particles of dust and other impurities contained in the air near sea level.

But the rejection of Vegard's theory with regard to the cause of the blue sky color, does not involve that part of his theory which ascribes the aurora borealis to the presence of a shell of nitrogen crystals.

Another interesting fact regarded by many as demonstrated, is that there exists in the high atmosphere a layer of ozone which acts as a screen, cutting off the ultra-violet waves of the sun's radiation, below wave length 3,000, which are destructive to living organisms; so that but for this invisible shield of super-oxygen, held against the heavens high above our heads, terrestrial life—at least of our kind—might not be possible.

DRESS

By Mary Marshall

The Sleeve Begins to Play a Role in the Game of Fashion

Can you remember the time when women used to make a point of buying two or three extra yards when they bought material for a new frock If the dress was made outside the house they asked the dressmaker to lay aside two or three yards.

The object was one of eventual economy. The dress might be worn two seasons without appearing hopelessly out of fashion, if only there was enough material to change the sleeves. There was a time when the shape of a sleeve proclaimed its vintage. It was most humiliating to the woman who wanted to be in fashion to wear the wrong sort of sleeve.

Sleeves haven't amounted to much lately. For as long as they could, French dressmakers have simplified the sleeves problem to the utmost by making frocks without them. And Americans have taken up with the sleeve fashion with more or less approval. In any large dressmaking establishment in days gone by there were special sleeve workers, sleeve drapers, sleeve trimmers. There was a special art in setting a sleeve.

It looks very much as if sleeves were coming back into their old prominence. At any rate in recent showings of new clothes for autumn and winter the sleeve seems to have taken the center of the stage.

Lanvin's sleeve is really important. Don't forget it, for you will hear from it later. It is a sort of melon shape, with all the curving at the outside, widest at the elbow and quite close fitting at the inside. It was doubtless inspired by sleeves of the seventeenth century. Some of the charming ladies that Velasquez painted wore sleeves of this proportion.

Generally the tendency seems to be to hold in any fullness there may be below the elbow with a tight cuff at the wrist. Sometimes the sleeve is close fitting to the elbow, then expands only to be drawn in around the wrist. Much liked by the smart French woman is the sleeve that is long and close fitting, flaring at the wrist to form a background for the hand.

At top, puffed cuff of black and white fur cut in squares, from cloth coat, and black velvet sleeve with point at back embroidered in gold. Below, Lanvin's sleeve that clings to arm on inside and curves out at elbow, and sleeve formed of long fringe from evening gown. On figure, brocaded chiffon with long sleeves, tight at the wrists, with red ribbons falling over the sleeves.

WISE AND OTHERWISE

BY MARY MARSHALL

SILVER LOCKS

It would have taken a good deal of courage a generation ago for a novelist or short-story writer to work with a gray or white haired heroine. But heroines with "prematurely gray," or "prematurally white" hair are not at all unusual nowadays. Many a young man will confess that among the women with whom at some time or another he has fancied himself in love, was at least one woman with silver locks.

One of the best known dress models in this country is a tall, queenly young woman with hair almost white. She wears it in a straight mannish bob, parted in the the middle. Her gray hair is really an asset. She is remembered by her hair, while models just as beautiful as she may be forgotten for lack of some outstanding peculiarity of appearance.

The feeling used to be—did it not?—that the coming of gray or white hair was a sort of warning that it was time to put away youthful things. There were certain colors, certain fashions that were regarded as too youthful for the woman with gray hair no matter how young she might be. She retired into a sort of half-mourning for life—gray and lavender and white and black were the colors she wore.

One enterprising woman with white hair recently surprised her friends and caused herself to be much talked about by dyeing her hair lavender, which she found hugely becoming. And yet women for centuries have dyed their hair to keep from being put into the discard with other gray-haired women. And usually they have deceived nobody. At least there was nothing underhanded or deceptive about this woman who dyed her hair lavender.

FREAKS OF FASHION

Monkey fur has been revived, and is sometimes used dyed red, green—even gilt and silver. Often it is applied "the wrong way," so that instead of lying smooth it stands out.

A WORD TO THE HOMELY GIRL

In face and form you may be unattractive, but mere physical charm is not all important.

Cheerfulness is better.

If you are bright, well-read, and show a genuine interest in the affairs of your fellow-beings you will be sought.

If you seek opportunities to sympathize with the sad and keep your record clear and your life clean, you will find yourself surrounded by many friends.

Friends as a result of mere physical beauty amount to very little.

Those who love you for beauty of heart and mind are lasting friends.

You may not make friends quickly as the girl who is pretty and chic, but you can show qualities that will make the mere beauty envious.

Perhaps you have received many snubs and rebuffs because you are lacking in physical charm, but there are always those who look deeper. In time you will surround yourself with a coterie of true-blue companions who will be a source of great pleasure to you. So do not be discouraged.

Manilans Seeking Spanish Gold On Babuyan Island

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Manila, Oct. 1.—Two chests of Spanish gold, said to have been hidden in a cave in the typhoon-swept hills of Claro Rabuyan, one of the northernmost islands of the Philippine group, are challenging the spirit of several venturesome Manilans who are preparing to go in search of the treasure. The gold, according to the natives, was hidden in the cave nearly a century ago by an old woman who sought protection for her treasure from the frequent earthquakes and volcanic eruptions on the island.

The crew of a coastguard cutter, which recently visited the island, brought word that two brass cannons, about five feet long, and a ship's bell taken from a British warship, wrecked there many years ago, were found. The bell is used to summon worshippers to a dilapidated chapel which is without a priest.

There are two volcanoes on the island, one of which became active a few months ago. It poured forth a stream of lava and two natives were killed during the eruption. The last eruption by the other volcano took place nearly 70 years ago when a number of people were killed.

U. S. Booze-Runners Turn Attentions To Smuggling Aliens

(Reuter's American Service)

Montreal, Oct. 21.—Mr. Wixon, the United States Commissioner of Immigration, who is investigating the existence of an alleged gigantic ring, with headquarters here, engaged in the smuggling of aliens into the United States, says that rumrunners are now turning their attention from liquor to aliens, and that jails near the border are filled with men and women of many nationalities who sought to evade the immigration law. Mr. Wixon says that there is now a sufficient waiting list in Montreal to fill the quota until next July.
